

Las Vegas Home For Pregnant Women

Las Vegas Home For Pregnant Women

- Clark County is currently tied for 11th in the nation for the number of pregnant teens ages 15-17, and only has data on 52% of the fathers involved in the pregnancy. There are no records on the number of births to mothers between the ages of 12-15, however local agencies requesting assistance have indicated that there are sufficient numbers to offer our services to.

Living Grace Home

- Living Grace Home is a residential facility in the greater Las Vegas valley to serve unwed pregnant women between the ages of 14 to 22. These young women are homeless or at risk of being homeless due to their pregnancy.

Living Grace Home

- Living Grace Home provides housing, education, and social services to pregnant women, filling a gap in current government and private non-profit services in the Las Vegas valley. Partnering with government agencies, the education community, and private non-profits, we seek to fill a need that is currently not being met.
- Living Grace Home, following the example of other second-chance homes across the country, offers a safe haven to young mothers in need, caring for their immediate needs, and preparing them for the future.

Living Grace Home

- Recognizing that teen mothers who remain single and choose to parent their child are less likely to finish high school, and more likely to spend an extended period of time in poverty than those who marry, or those who place their child for adoption,. We work closely with local and national programs to encourage marriage, paternal involvement, or adoption as preferable to single parenting. However, if a mom does make the choice to parent, our goal is to make sure she has the best possible outcome for both her and her child; including support, father and/or family support, as well as the best parenting skills.

Living Grace Home

- Because this is a community wide problem, Living Grace Home seeks a community wide solution, calling on churches, businesses, and other non-profit agencies to assist us in our goal to protect young women who are pregnant, and to reduce the number of repeat pregnancies among teens and young women in our community.

Living Grace Home
