A little long and could move a bit faster.

I felt it was a fun and engaging exercise, but I really didn't hear anything new from the whole group. It's the same ole, same ole...

What worked well about this exercise?

Keeps you thinking and talking.

The opportunity to sit with other agencies different than mine. It allowed for different perspectives to be shared.

the discussion between my partner & I

What do you think would have improved this exercise?

I would randomly assign people to one another versus having friends sit with friends.

Clearer instructions; More time

Being paired with the same individual for the entirety of the exercise could be a strength or a weakness depending on your partner.

I'm not sure

Do you have an idea or recommendation about how to move forward with a winning or top-voted solution?

Continuing to have thought provoking exercises and involving EVERYONE is great!

Thank you!

Not really
