

Lauren Boitel

Lauren Boitel is the Executive Director of ImpactNV, a statewide sustainability nonprofit in Nevada. ImpactNV views homelessness as a social sustainability priority for Nevada and has engaged in and lead convening, coalition building, and strategy development in the homelessness landscape for over 10 years. Lauren sits on the board of Southern Nevada CoC, was the Chair of the former Data and System Improvement Working Group of the CoC for 3 years, sat on the Nevada Homelessness Policy Council, was involved in the Built For Zero campaign to end chronic homelessness, and was appointed co-chair of the CoC Homeless Trust Fund Ad Hoc Committee. With a bachelor's degree in art as well as an MBA, she brings a uniquely cohesive perspective to solving business challenges (and seeing opportunities) in the sustainability movement. Lauren also expanded her local and state sustainability expertise to a global perspective as former faculty at the Lee Business School within the University of Nevada Las Vegas, teaching Sustainability & Entrepreneurship for students enrolled in the Global Entrepreneurship Experience from 2018-2022. Lauren now speaks from the perspective of a professional with over 15 years of sustainability leadership in nonprofit governance and education in Nevada. A Las Vegas for most of her life, Lauren spends her free time practicing her bagpipes, exploring the southwest on road trips to surrounding states, or hiking in the Mojave Desert with her twin sister and shelter rescue, mastiff-mix, Riggs.
